introduction

Qualifications framework consists of a set of standards and guidelines that can be considered the basis on which higher education programs can be designed and evaluated for further quality assurance. These frameworks aim at improving the quality of higher education by means of providing the students the required knowledge and skills, which enable them to lead the labor market in accordance with the sustainable development goals.

It seems inevitable for the national and Arab accreditation bodies to work on producing qualification frameworks at the national and Arab levels that ensure the graduates' acquisition of the competencies needed to compete in the local and international labor market. In addition of ensuring their ability to use cutting-edge technologies as well as all the innovations of the Fourth Industrial Revolution

This cannot be achieved in isolation from the development of universities into fourth generation universities. As such, the ultimate goal is to improve the quality of innovative, interactive and autonomous-learning education and scientific research that has its basis on modern technologies. Meanwhile, improving the graduates' innovative capabilities to compete in the labor market by means of producing market-related, problem-solving scientific research is highly considered to ensure providing community services that support the development of local society under the umbrella of sustainable development.
